INCAM 2022 Virtual Symposium

October 12-14 & 17-18, 2022

This virtual research meeting is co-hosted by the Centre for Integrative Medicine and the Department of Community Health & Epidemiology of the University of Saskatchewan (Saskatoon, SK, Canada) in collaboration with the INCAM Research Network.

WHO WE ARE

Over the last 20 years, the INCAM Symposium has been a prominent research, knowledge translation, and networking event for traditional, complementary, alternative, and integrative medicine (TCAIM). Even in the midst of shared challenges, this biannual meeting allows us to reconnect with the community. The 2022 Symposium will continue to be the place where new research ideas are catalyzed, and collaborations formed.

This virtual event, taking place over 4 half days on October 13, 14, 17, and 18, will feature:

- Keynote speakers & Workshops
- Experiential Learning
- Oral & poster research presentations
- Many opportunities to meet, discuss, and network

WHO SHOULD ATTEND?

A range of stakeholders with an interest in research in the diverse TCAIM and integrative healthcare/medicine field. Past attendees of the INCAM symposia have included academic researchers, clinician-researchers, practitioners, students, funders, educators, and policymakers.

KEYNOTE SPEAKERS

Here is a sneak peek into our lineup of symposium speakers:

DR. ANITA CHAKRAVARTI is a professor with the College of Medicine, University of Saskatchewan, Associate Faculty of the Centre of Integrative Medicine, and a retired anesthesiologist. Having completed her Mindful Practice® certification in New York, she now teaches a framework for mindfulness-based wellness programming for healthcare and human service providers, businesses, and corporations.

DR. NICOLE REDVERS, a member of the Deninu K'ue First Nation, is an assistant professor in both the Department of Family & Community Medicine and the Department of Indigenous Health at the University of North Dakota. She has been actively involved at the international level promoting the inclusion of Indigenous perspectives in planetary health and education for sustainable healthcare.

DR. LINDA RAPSON is a graduate of the Faculty of Medicine at the University of Toronto. She specializes in treating chronic pain by integrating acupuncture and nutrition with conventional medical approaches. She was one of the first physicians in Canada to study acupuncture, taught it across Canada, and has lectured on acupuncture internationally.

DR. GREGOR REID is a Fellow of the Royal Society of Canada and Canadian Academy of Health Sciences, and Distinguished Professor Emeritus at Western University. His research into the role of beneficial microbes in the health of humans and other life forms precipitated the advancement of probiotics and beneficial microbes in Canada and around the world.

Stay tuned for a full list of keynotes and panel presentations plus innovative workshops, networking, and electronic poster sessions to bring people and discussions together.

WHY SPONSOR US?

Our goal is to connect you in a meaningful way to our delegates and members. Supporting the symposium as an official sponsor gives you the opportunity to:
